

Frontend. No frontiers.

In the heart of downtown Cologne, we work together to develop exciting and sophisticated software for ourselves and our international customers. Versatile projects, innovative challenges, the development of our own products - a digital world that we create in our team of over 75 sharp minds every day.

And we are looking for you - for the further joint development of a platform that supports our customers in the pharmaceutical industry in the challenge of digitalization. Microservices form the basis and offer plenty of opportunities for new frameworks and languages. The runtime environment is located in the AWS Cloud. Together with you we want to expand the platform and develop it into a stable software product.
